"Maybe the Last."

A monster round up is in progress, and the ranch clans are gathering at Lethbridge to sweep the country of cattle and horses that owners may get their "strays" and drive them back to their home range. The great lesson of horse men will gather every head of cattle and covering a strip nearly one hundred miles in width.

It is the biggest round up for ten years and covering as it is base of supplies a migratory camp of nearly a dozen wagons and an army of over one hundred cow boys.

The start will be made from the East and they will work West.

The Knight Sugar Co. will send Richard Lawell Esq. to represent their interests and who will carry his excess baggage of a pair of sox and a clean hat band in the Eldredge wagon.

Mr. Turp Young will be in the A. L. and S. corner and will get as many D-K's or any other brand as can be plucked from the burning. The other outfits represented will be the U, the Little Bow ranchers, the Oxley (W. R. Hull Calgary) A. B. McGregor (Medicine Hat) and many others.

The Band Concert

The much advertised long expected long looked for Band Concert was given last Friday night to a large audience. The band with those that were on the program occupied the stage. The selections played by the band were well played and those that took part on the programme rendered their selections in good style. After the concert the seats were pushed back and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

The Band is a fine organization and with proper encouragement should become a leading factor in our community.

Best Field Notes

The rains of the past few days with the warmth of the air and the occasional sunshine have made vegetation leap in its growth.

Beets sown two weeks ago will be ready for thinning in another week, and by the time seedling is over which it will be inside of one week there will be 3000 acres coming on with a rush to engage the undivided attention of best thinners.

Mr. T. J. O'Brien the eminent authority on beets and base ball says there will be no dearth of help this year for the beet fields. Many of the beet growers are sowing poisoned bran just after the beet seed is planted for the purpose of multiplying the mortality among the cut worms which if left undisturbed and ungorged with poisoned bran do much damage to the growing beet crop inasmuch that a bush is wiped off the earth as a basis of probable profit.

The cut worm is of the genus but in that it is period of greatest activity is at night and as the bran is sown in the evening the waking day sees many worms wrestling with each a bad case of green indigestion which usually terminates with fatal results.

Decoration Day.

A holiday which has come to be observed with a good deal of enthusiasm, if not of reverence, by our cousins on the other side of the international boundary is the 30th of May, generally referred to as Decoration Day. The observance originated in the mind of a patriotic woman, who thought it appropriate that the services of those who laid down their lives in maintaining the cause of human liberty might be remembered and recognized in certain memorial exercises and the decoration of the graves of the heroic dead. The idea of setting apart a day for this purpose proved popular, and in a short time the practice had become quite universal throughout the States.

Almost immediately, too, it took on a wider significance and won its way into the favor of the people generally. Not only those who had relatives who had died in the armies of the Republic; not only those who had laid away dear ones in the silent cities of the dead; but even those also who though not themselves bereaved all realized how fitting and beautiful it was that for one day at least the minds of the living should be tenderly turned toward the loved ones gone before, and gentle hands make beautiful the resting place of mortal dust in Mother Earth. And thus it came about that Decoration Day has grown to mean the occasion of the cleaning up and beautifying of the cemeteries throughout the land; when weeds and rubbish are removed, headstones set in place, fences and walks repaired, trees shrubs and lawns where possible, planted and trimmed, and the sweet flowers of garden and prairie strewn upon the graves.

The custom is one that may profitably be followed even in our youthful communities in this land. There is none of us so indifferent that he cannot spare the time for affectionate thoughts of loved ones gathered in by the sickle of the grim reaper; none so pre-occupied that a few hours each year cannot be devoted to adding beauty to their last resting place. From such thoughts and such labors will come an increase of courage in carrying forward bravely the battle of life, an increase of hope for that sweet reunion with the sanctified which awaits those whose mortal part is worthily performed.

June 1st. is the 100th anniversary of the birth of Brigham Young the founder of Utah and next to the Prophet Joseph Smith, the most striking figure in Mormon history. He has been dead but thirty years yet already he is spoken of as one of America's great men.

Time will do him and the work he was associated with a justice which contemporary history denies him and he will yet be not alone admired for the work he has done but he will be revered as one of those who loved his fellow men.

The Round Up

It was almost mournful to hear the cow men who are assembling in Lethbridge for a big "round up" say "it looks like this might be the last."

The "round up" with its romance and its attracting features of adventure is a dissolving picture that is seeing its last presentation in local history. Cow men say

"we used to hire riders now we build wire fences," and where were once stretched miles of prairie peopled only by scattered herds with a moving speck on the horizon which indicated an alert cow boy on duty, now there are hundreds of miles of glistening wire and straight post rows that stretch beyond the vision and melt into the hazy distance.

The cowboy he of high colored romance he of the broad hat and gay neckerchief of "chaps" and high heeled boots and jingling spurs he is following the last round up and will disappear into the dimness with the "range" and the "ranch." Such parts are nearly played they were evolved from environment and will disappear with the conditions that called them into being.

They have been loyal and fearless, their importance as pioneers can only be estimated, their true value may never be known. The heart of romance, garish maid, experiences a sharp twinge as she sees the passing of her favorite subject the free the loyal and fearless cow boy.

Hooray For O'Day

Loch-in-var O'Day has come out to the West

And at base, bat or coaching his head's of the best.

Tho he rode all unarmed and now walks a bit lame, He "got onto" the special and got into the game.

And the Hat that was cocked in contemptuous glee O'Day just knocked off in that score nine to three.

He got on "his toes" and he whooped the boys up

And when the Hat lit well it lit wrong side up.

And the "big thing" in ball is the theme of our lay?

Who knocked off the Hat. Here's to you O'Day.

Seely and the Cabbie

It was about 1:30 when Archibald

McAllister arrived at Euston station, and he found that the train he was expecting for Tottenham did not leave

London till 4 o'clock. To see as many of the "night" of the great crowd as possible in the limited time was his current desire, but the half rating

decided he had better in Tottenham

London cabmen's charges had not been settled upon him. After a moment's thought, however, he hailed a hansom

"Is a stranger here, ye ken," he said to the driver. "But can ye drive me to Waterloo station in time to catch the 4 o'clock train?"

With a little reflection cabbie said he thought he might manage it, and by driving by devils way he managed to make that twenty minute journey

last two hours and a half. Arrived at Waterloo, Archibald fastened upon a railway policeman.

"Can ye tell me the fare from Euston?"

"One and six," said the policeman's

gavroine.

"Very well," said Archie. "Here's a ha'penny for yerself, ma mon, and will ye kindly see me to the cabman

where a body takes his ticket?"—London Chronicle.

A SNAKE STORY.

Mrs. Margaret Thompson of London, who died many years ago, by her will directed that in her coffin should be buried all her landholders and the decent of the best Scotch snuff to cover

her body. This she preferred to flowers, and she was buried with

and so referring to me as that preferred snuff. Further, the six best snuff takers in the parish of St.

James, Westminster, were to be her learned to his old snuff, each bearing

in her hand a box filled with the best

Scotch snuff to take for their refreshment as they walked, were to carry the pill. Before the corpse the minister was to walk carrying and parting a of a pound of snuff. At every twenty yards a large handful of snuff was to be delivered to the bystanders, who

at the door of the testator's house were to be placed for gratuitous distribution

two bushels of the same quality of snuff.

Earthquakes and Pestilence.

From early times pestilence has been regarded as one of the accompaniments of earthquakes. Nor is this perhaps a mere figment of superstition.

Many instances of epidemics following upon earthquakes are on record, says

the Lancet. Thus in 527-50 B. C.

earthquake years, Constantinople was visited by a pestilence, and in 515

A. D. after more than a decade of adverse disturbances which extended from

Japan to the Mediterranean, the whole of Italy was visited, according to Strabo, by a fearful epidemic. In 1656, the city of Messina, Sicily, was visited by an epidemic, which was attributed to the pestilence which had been to disease exhibited by the time during earthquake.

It was also attributed to the suspense and broken rest at night.

The foot ball boys seem to be a little shy but we have some good material and ought develop it. While our Basket Ball Team is in fine shape and ready to meet any team from the surrounding towns.

The baseball game pulled off on the 24th of the May between the married and single men resulted as only a game between those teams could result, in victory for the single men. The heads of families fought long and hard for supremacy but there down fall was sure from the very first. The only thing that saved them from a worse defeat was the fact that they had such a variety of pitchers that the players on the single men's team could not get used to one curve before he was studying another. The single men were very kind and gave them five runs while they in their modesty only took eleven.

A complete line of disc plows in at Hawkins and Harris's new shop. See big display at next week.

Dr. Rollins bought 80 acres of farm land of Wm. Dingman this week through the Young and Young agency.

Messrs. Tollestrup and Weaver are plowing for the Sugar Co. on the section South of town with their engine.

We have had showers almost daily now for the past week and vegetation is shooting skyward so rapidly that it can almost be seen to grow.

Mrs. John A. Silver surprised some of her Raymond friends on Saturday by dropping in on them while they were discussing the help problem over the back yard fence with their neighbors.

Mr. John F. Green the traveling salesman of the Raymond Milling and Elevator Co. has just returned from a successful business trip through the Province.

Mr. F. E. Bunn met with a painful accident on Thursday at the Sugar Factory by which he lost the sight of his left eye. He was cutting a piece off a bolt with a chisel when it broke and struck him in the eye, the eyeball was not broken but the sight is destroyed.

Messrs. McComb and Baines of High River were in Raymond this week closing up some real estate deals made when last in here. They took away with them some samples of Fall wheat from their own land which measured over 17 inches in length. Testimonials may be had from these gentlemen that this is the very best part of Alberta.

Ray Knight ropes other things than steers his last haul was a $40 dividend from 11000 shares of Colorado mining stock. This trifle it is expected will momentarily reimburse indefinitely from now on as the Colorado is running its a pay streak. Ray was seen to smile at the wolf at his door when he read the hieroglyphics on that little piece of paper.

To avoid a recurrence of water in the cellar Prest. Allen has put in a cement floor and also cement the cellar walls up a distance of 3 1/2 feet. It was found to be inconvenient to have to seize a mess of potatoes out of the pond in the cellar, and the floating vegetables, the only ones visible were found to be valuable as articles of food. The cemented cellar will do away with the necessity of a diving suit in the Allen home from now on.

Wanted to trade—640 acres of fine irrigated farm land at Market Lake, Idaho, for a herd of Alberta cattle. Over 600 acres of this is irrigable and has one of the best and never failing water rights out of the Snake River. Address: John L. Wegener, Rosebud Alta.

Lethbridge Base Ball

Lethbridge is terminating its second week of baseball with varying results mostly of the debt variety. All fortune seems to have pursued the Lethbridge team as not until the middle of the present week have they been able to secure their line up. They have a full complement of men with two extra pitchers but the games with Edmonton Calgary and Medicine Hat have been played with their extra pitchers in the field and of course out of position. This arrangement has consequently weakened them and the effect has been apparent in the games they have lost. Despite the handicap, the team has been doing good work and when their play has been reduced to smoothness they will be heading out fast ball.

Perhaps one of the most distinctive players on the team to Westcrners is "Chimnie Fadden" Fogarty who possesses a vocabulary of slang "words" that is perhaps the most dazzling North of the Boundary. The gentlemen without an exception are men of spirit and the successive layers of empty plates bear witness where they take their meals.

To people who know and like baseball a stop over in Lethbridge for one night empty plates a man who has once been a "bow-ball" fan.

The quip and jest and glee for the umpire, the bleachers roared for the players, the tense situation where the proper play means glory and victorious public approval and futile musings of gloomy and excruciation, all go to make up a drama which over and over again will have future enactment.

The League is putting out a good article of ball and no lover of the game should miss seeing some of it.

The Provincial Coal Commission is sitting in Lethbridge and is making an exhaustive inquiry into coal conditions, the shortage of last Winter, how to avoid a repetition of those awful conditions, scale of wages and the many questions which naturally will be presented for investigation and solution.

The move is a most commendable one and well worthy the beneficence of our excellent government.

The fuel question presents some conditions which legislation can remedy, and the public may rest assured that the gentlemen having the adjustment of these difficulties in charge will fearlessly and patriotically perform their official duty.
